In a strategic collaboration with the Abu Dhabi Investment Office we have provided funding of 15 million AED, three years of additional support for startups. The virtual and in-person portions of the Anjal Z program were conducted with seven startups selected out of 130 applicants. Workshops were held with more than ten global experts, resulting in over 40 meetings between the startups with more than 15 public and private stakeholders in order to help drive the pilot launch. Of those seven startups, six signed agreements to receive a mobilization grant of 50k USD. The Anjal Z Innovation Champion Workshop took place with the participation of 21 Abu Dhabi government and private sector individuals. The Abu Dhabi Youth Challenge was also held both in-person and virtually, with the winners completing internship programs.

12. ECA's Data Science case studies

In order to understand and gain insight into challenges impacting children, five Use Cases were completed by ECA's Data Science united on the following topics - Break the Cycle; Happy Learning Stories; Low Birth Weight Babies; Children of Determination friendly schools and the Impact of Divorce on Young Children's Education Attainment. A "bridge" program was established in partnership with Zayed University, the Higher College of Technology, and UAE University in order to prepare fresh graduates for new job opportunities in fields related to early childhood development. This will help graduates enhance their skills and knowledge, and identify the specific challenges they are facing.

National Service Training Program was launched by the Center of Excellence for Applied Research & Training and has provided a thousand (1000) recruits with education and guidance in the fundamental elements of Early Childhood Development. Over five consecutive days Program provided both face to face tutoring, as well as over 30 hours of training with content available in both English and Arabic.

9. Professional development programs for policymakers

In order to create and implement the overall approach to the ECD in Abu Dhabi and the UAE, ECA launched a number of professional development programs for 56 leading policymakers. Launched in partnership with Abu Dhabi New York University, these programs increased awareness of the latest international research in the field of designing and implementing comprehensive services for young children.

10. Nursery workers and teachers training

Over 5,000 registered practitioners took part in the launch of a Program on Quality Improvement & Child Development Training for Nurseries - a set of professional development modules delivered through online workshops by local experts and specialists. Launched in collaboration with the Anjal Z startup Kinderly, the program's aim was to improve the early childhood skills of nursery managers, principals, teachers and teaching assistants.

11. Golden visa program to attract ECD related talent

In order for the UAE to become a world leader in the ECD sector, we need to address the lack of human capital. By launching the Golden Visa and Citizenship Initiative, we have created a huge opportunity to attract ECD related talent to the UAE and fill both the short and long term human capital gap. Thirty six applicants took part, with nominations for ECD practitioners received from five entities at both local and federal level.

Isle of Daydreaming / Program 1:

Enhance support for parents and primary caregivers

1. Parent Friendly Label

To support parent friendly workspaces we launched a volunteer program that recognizes and awards private sector and semi-government organizations. The 'Parent Friendly Label' saw ten companies recognized as early adopters at the beginning of 2021 - these companies, along with ten small and medium enterprise and six private sector companies, provided feedback that would go on to help define the criteria and principles. Through a series of outreach efforts over 80 companies were invited to apply for the label, out of which 14 Abu Dhabi organizations applied for the Parent Friendly Label and a further five applied for Parent Friendly Plus. Evaluations of the applicants are currently underway, and awards will be given during 2022. Sharjah Education Council showed interest on the Parent Friendly Label in Sharjah, and the initiative will be expanded to other emirates, with more organizations added to the label as the program expands in the coming years.

2. Community engagement program Athar

COVID-19 has created a number of challenges for the children, parents and caregivers of Abu Dhabi. In order to identify and assist with these challenges, the community engagement program Athar was created. Nearly 700 responses from parents and caregivers with children below the age of nine were received through a Community Engagement Poll, which was then furthered with over 25 hours of ideation with 47 diverse ECD stakeholders representing 13 countries. This resulted in the generation of 59 ideas, which were then refined to 25 and a shortlist of six ideas was created. From this shortlist, three initiatives were prioritized and will be piloted in schools and nurseries during 2022. First to be implemented is the "Learning Leaps" pilot program, which will provide equal opportunities for children by supporting the after-school education of pupils from low-income families by connecting them with volunteer educators. The "Rising Star" initiative is a collaboration with Anjal Z that aims to use technology to connect parents with practitioners so they can monitor the development of children outside the classroom. A select number of schools and nurseries will also incorporate play-based open learning methods through the "Learning Through PlayLab" pilot initiative, which hopes to increase successful development for children.

3. Strategic partner's work on early childhood care and education

We have continued to support our strategic partners in their work on early childhood care and education. In 2021 we reviewed and socialized MoE's Bara'em Al Mustaqbal Philosophy Framework and Child Profiles, the Practitioner Guide and the Assessment Guide. We also supported MoE's redesign of the National Early childhood education and care strategy and ECSRE Policy Framework for the Emirate Abu Dhabi.

4. Positive Parenting Program Framework

With partners from the health, education, social, police and judicial sectors we launched the Positive Parenting Program Framework. A needs assessment was conducted to adapt and contextualize training and content, and stakeholders were mobilized to take part in delivering the program. Twenty six practitioners were selected from nine entities in the health, education and social sectors to take part in the facilitators training pilot. A session was conducted with the "Voice of the Child" panel on parenting challenges and willingness to participate in the program.

5. Workshops on parenting and caregiver strategies and methods

We engaged 23 local and federal entities to work together on parenting and caregiver strategies and methods. A series of workshops were held with the Technical Committee to capture partner's inputs, validate a comprehensive diagnostic of parents, identify improvement opportunities, and discuss strategy priority areas. To inform the development strategy, we are currently planning a additional focus group with low-income families that receive services and support from ADSSA.

6. KAP Survey

We received 300 responses to the Parent Knowledge, Attitudes and Practices survey, and 119 responses from the Practitioners survey - the various insights gained from these surveys was launched, along with a meeting with partners to understand their ongoing and planned efforts regarding parental and caregiver support.

7. Integrated Early Childhood Intervention System

The ECA has been leading the agenda on an Integrated Early Childhood Intervention System (IECS) by establishing a multi-sector working group created from 49 members, representing 17 organizations, government departments, UAE federal entities, and private sector service providers. We have held meetings with both the Butterfly Foundation and the Gates foundation, who represent parents of Children of Determination, to discuss their roles in shaping the IECIS. With the support of ZHO and community partners we have gained first-hand experience and local insight through 15 baseline stakeholder interviews, four focus groups, and a quantitative survey with more than 200 parents of Children of Determination. This, along with benchmarking and the review of evidence based findings, will help us establish a shared understanding on the current outcomes of the current state analysis from the multi-sectoral working group. To prepare for the future system, we have worked with over ten partners to design the target state and set in motion the development of initiatives for implementation.

8. Parenting in a Pandemic online program

The launch of the Parenting in a Pandemic and Beyond Intervention has given parents access to a comprehensive online program that provides practical tools, strategies and easy play ideas to help keep children healthy, happy and learning throughout lockdown and beyond. Within the first 3 weeks of launch, 28,000 people registered and 24,954 attended.

Isle of Daydreaming / Program 2:

Create a widespread public engagement strategy

9. Awareness of key ECD topics

Throughout the year we have invested in and engaged with a number of awareness campaigns - on topics ranging from the importance of learning through play (working with Abu Dhabi New York University on Emirati Children's Day), the importance of safety when playing outside (in partnership with Abu Dhabi Police), a child protection social media campaign, and have raised awareness of key ECD topics in shopping malls such as Al Ain. We have also promoted increasing awareness about dental health, premarital counseling, maternal health, the effects of divorce, and child vaccination.

10. Community satisfaction survey

With the goal of ensuring every child in Abu Dhabi can develop and thrive in a safe and protected environment, we launched a community satisfaction survey to enhance our early childhood awareness efforts and empower our capabilities in the care and development of every young child.

11. World Early Childhood Development Movement

In order to create and share knowledge for the advancement of Early Childhood Development both in Abu Dhabi and on a global stage, 2021 saw the creation of the World Early Childhood Development Movement. The WED Movement is bringing together the world's leading experts, innovators and disruptors to curate the best possible solutions to positively impact the lives of all children and empower the Early Childhood Development sector. The WED Movement first edition in March 2021 saw the Global Virtual Kick-Off hosted by Ms. Cecilia Vaca Jones and HE Omar Ghobash and included 21 Breakthrough Working Groups from nine countries form a multi-sectoral and multi-experienced taskforce with the aim of actively engaging over the next nine months around four main global themes - Tech Humanity for Children, 21st Century Lifestyle, Social Emotional Wellbeing, and Social Interaction. During this time, BWGs interviewed both community members and professionals in the field in order to validate their assumptions and conduct baseline research and initial surveys. Once finalized and prioritized, BWG teams presented these conceptualized prototypes at the final Demo day event held in November. In December, a two day workshop was held to start co-designing implementation paths for six strategic outputs - the Annual Survey on technology, design principles on technology use, awareness campaigns on social interaction, explosion boxes, microbiome research, and ARCS (Achieving the Rights of the Child Systemwide). This was achieved with the assistance of international experts and both public and private partners including Mubadala, the Crown Prince Court, the Abu Dhabi Executive Office, the Abu Dhabi Department of Education and Knowledge, the Abu Dhabi Digital Authority, the Abu Dhabi Department of Community Development and Abu Dhabi Government Media Office. Sponsors at a variety of levels and contributions were secured during 2021, and their partnerships will continue into 2022 with the aim of further raising awareness and communicating the aims of the movement, as well as continuing to progress in the output implementation. Special mention is made to our visionary partner Mubadala, who officially onboarded on the 12th December 2021.
